☞ Each member of the County Committee will please notice that he is Chairman of the Vigilance Committee for his election district.

Your earnest attention is directed to the following Act of Assembly, regulating the mode of voting at all elections in the several counties of this Commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in general Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the qualified voters of the several counties of this Commonwealth, at all the general, township, borough and special elections, are hereby hereafter required to vote by tickets, written or printed, or partly printed and partly written, severally classified, as follows: One ticket shall embrace the names of all Judges of Courts voted for, and to be labelled outside, "Judicary;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all State officers voted for, labelled "State;" one ticked shall embrace the names of all County officers voted for, including office of Senator, member and members of Assembly, if voted for, and be labelled "County;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all Township officers voted for, and be labelled "Township;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all Borough officers voted for, and be labelled "Borough;" and each class shall be deposited in separate ballot-boxes.

ORGANIZE! ORGANIZE!—We implore you, friends, to organize for victory and the redemption of Centre county from Democratic misrule. We can carry the county if you will only determine to do so and work earnestly and energetically to accomplish that desired end. Work, boys, organize and work.

WHEN the Centre Hall Reporter in its loud defense of Orvis' speech, throws mean low innuendoes at Governor Curtin's administration, it only heaps coals of fire on Orvis' head and makes votes by the score for Levi A. Miller. There are too many men in this County who, though they be democrats, wont allow the name of our gallant Ex-governor to be used in connection with Orvis' showing of what he calls the "Treasury Steal." Gov. Curtin's record as governor is an honor to the county and State, and history has so written it, and any attempt to put a shadow upon any part of it will be promptly met and hurled back into the very teeth of those who give it utterance by scores of good men all over the county. This simple act of the Reporter is enough to defeat John H. Orvis. On next Tuesday let every friend of the gallant old war governor, resent this insult to his record, as governor of this commonwealth.

LEVI A. MILLER came within a very few votes of being elected sheriff last fall. He still retains the respect and confidence of all who voted for him then. If our men will work earnestly and industriously for him on next Tuesday, he will be triumphantly elected. Let every Republican do his duty for Levi A. Miller. He richly deserves the honor that is within his grasp.

IF the honest men of this county allow John B. Mitchell to be elected, they will find that another tool will be added to the Court House ring. Mitchell is a rich demagogue who wants to come "to town" to live and the ring want to use him, and will use him if he is elected, to squander the people's money and keep the democratic party in power.

—LOOK OUT FOR SPURIOUS TICKETS.

LEVI A. MILLER

is the laboring man's candidate He has no profession to give up worth $7,000 per year as John H. Orvis has.

THE nomination of John G. Sankey was a triumph of corrupt unscrupulous men over the more honest portion of the Democratic party. A trap was sprung upon the convention by a ring. Certain candidates were to be elected and others must be defeated, notwithstanding they were more popular with the majority of their party. These men of the ring who now have their hands deep into the county treasury desire to keep them there. The people's money has and is now being used for their oppression. Honesty is over shadowed by dishonty. The true Democrat has had to give way to the favorite of a corrupt ring. Fealty to clique has outvalued for the time patriotic party devotion. The Republican party have offered to the honest democrats a remedy, they have placed in nomination a man who has the confidence of men of all parties, a man who will not be the tool of any clique or ring, who never was accused of being dishonest, and who will conduct the affairs of the county in an honest and efficient manner. And we wish to remind democrats who might otherwise hesitate to vote for a Republican, that they will lose nothing of power in the county by electing honest Samuel Gramly, as they will still have two democrats on the board, although we are compelled in all candor to say that if the names of all the democrats in the county had been put in a box and shook up, they could not have picked out of the whole lot two more complete tools. And we were surprised that at the last democratic convention, with so many good men pressing their claims to nomination, they should have put in nomination a man who had showed himself so entirely unfit—in fact so complete an imbecile as John G. Sankey; and he never would have been re-nominated if he had not been the pliant tool of one of the most corrupt rings that ever disgraced this or any other county. Therefore we say vote for Gramly, men of all parties, and let us have one man on the board of Commissioners who knows enough (when he may be required so to do by the state department or any other parties who have the right to ask it,) to make out an intelligent report of the affairs of the office and the county which the present board of imbeciles are either afraid or unable to do.

THE Watchman published, last week, a communication headed "The State Treasury Robbed again—$500,000 Gone." This false statement was started by the Pittsburg Post, but they have since been honorable enough to correct it. The Watchman and their correspondent knew it to be a lie when they gave it place in their columns, below we publish a dispatch received from Mr. Mackey, denying the falsehood:

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27, 1873.

To H. B. Swope, U. S. Attorney:

The report is not true. I had not a dollar at Jay Cooke's and less then ten thousand at the Union Banking company, which is amply secured.

R. W. MACKEY.

Of course as this lie is exploded, the Democracy will get something else to injure the Republican candidates. Believe none of their lies.

A vote for JOHN IRWIN, JR., is a vote in favor of honest legislation and against a guzzling quill driver.

Is it not a pity that Orvis has to cross the mountain to find in Centre Hall a paper that will publish his defence of a speech he made about the state Treasury? P. Gray Meek is too intelligent to let such stuff go into his paper. He knows its all bosh and wont compromise himself by giving it a place in his columns. He'd rather print the Borough auditor's report for nothing because it is more interesting.

Look out for TRICKS on all hands. See that every Republican candidate is fairly dealt with.

DEPLETION IN THE COURT HOUSE RING.

Israel Grenoble, late Recorder of the county, has given up his office.

He was too honest and conscientious to endure the misrule of the Court House ring.

He was too manly and independent to obey the dictates of the party whip and was forced to retire.

This is the way they take off the head of every good man that happens to get into office.

This is the reason they are making such gigantic efforts to re-elect J. G. Sankey.

He is their pliant tool, limber and pliable of mind and stability as a dish-rag.

He is a fit tool for the leeches.

They are afraid of honest Samuel Gramly and will move heaven and earth, if such were possible, to defeat him.

Let every honest man do his duty by seeing to it, that Samuel Gramly is elected.

WE want the voters of Centre county to remember, that Col. George A. Bayard did not ask for the nomination of County Treasurer; but since he has been honored with it, he has gone to work in earnest, sparing no pains by every honorable means to secure his election. We hope every Republican will do every thing that lays in his power to secure the election of this worthy worker. He is a poor man, and, therefore, should receive the votes of poor men. He was a soldier and a faithful one, suffering all the hardships of an incarceration in Libby prison, where many of our brave soldiers, less fortunate than our gallant Colonel, payed the penalty of their devotion to country with their lives in one long lingering agony of slow starvation. We hope every soldier will vote for their comrade, Geo. A. Bayard; he who was first in war should first be honored at home. Laboring men, soldiers, Republicans, he is the people's candidate, you forced the nomination upon him, as many of the delegates know he personally repuested them not to vote for him, therefore, his nomination was by the direct will of the people and not secured by any manipulation of rings or cliques, therefore, he is doubly deserving. i. e., the office sought him not he the office.

THE Watchman finding that John H. Orvis' chances for re-election are growing slimmer every day, now makes a show of supporting him. It is useless for the Watchman to deny that its support of Orvis has been very weak, that it would much prefer to see LEVI A. MILLER elected, because it would get Orvis out of its way. We are glad to announce that the editor of the Watchman although appearing to abuse MR. MILLER, though its columns, has, with many other life long democrats, quietly been working for the defeat of Mr. Orvis. Many of the democratic leaders are, besides Mr. Meek, quietly seeking to lay Mr. Orvis on the shelf, not because of any friendship they bear to MR. MILLER but because of their antipathy to Orvis. If our vote is brought out on next Tuesday the election of LEVI A. MILLER is assured.

SEELY of the Jersey Shore Herald and plenty of disgusted democrats will send Harry Petrikin, a Democratic candidate for Assembly, to political perdition on next Thursday, or we are very much disappointed in Col. Seely, that's all. And that's just what Hon. P. Grey Meek and some Democrats in this county will do with John H. Orvis.

Don't believe the slanders against SAMUEL GRAMLY, they are lies cut from whole cloth, and should not be noticed.

THE Reporter talks of "Captain" Waream as being a soldier. Yes he was a brave one in the three months service on the bloody plains of Huntingdon! There's where he "fit," bled and fought Administration! He has a healthy record as a soldier—about as good as Kurtz.

WHAT do the taxpayers think of paying out money to employ a blind man to watch fires in the seven mountains.—Sleepy Sankey conceived this brilliant idea. (See Auditors' Report for 1872.) We have no doubt, however, that he was as fit a man to watch fires as Sleepy Sankey is to be Commissioners of Centre county.

WE reproduce the vote of Centre County, for Governor and President, last year. We feel safe in saying, that if the Republicans of Centre County poll as many votes on next Tuesday as they did in November last, our whole ticket will be elected. Let every member of the party go to work as if the success of the ticket depended entirely on his own individual efforts, and we will come out of the contest with victory perched upon our banners. To accomplish this, every Republican must go to the polls and vote, and see that his neighbor goes. We now have it within our grasp to redeem the County from the Court House Ring, if every Republican does his whole duty.

THE Commissioners paid Meek and Brown for printing, (see Auditors' Report for 1872), $1,500, and Kurtz and Stover, on the other side, $677,44. That is the way SLEEPY SANKEY favors the papers in Penns valley. The Commissioners have now got a paper of their own on this side, so that they can, in the future, put some of the people's money where it will do themselves "the most good." "Soft snap" for the Commissioners, but rather hard on the tax-payers.

SAMUEL GRAMLEY will be elected if honest men will do their duty next Tuesday. He will carry his own, Miles township. He did it before. Let the Republicans on this "side" do their duty, and he is sure to be elected over the SLEEPY SANKEY.

THE COURT HOUSE RING DRIVEN TO THE WALL.

The exposures made by the REPUBLICAN, of the Court House Ring, during the campaign has caused such a commotion in that corrupt body, that they are now willing to resort to any measures that will retrieve their fallen fortunes.—Contrary to all the usages of the Democratic party, they force the nomination of Sankey on the party. Every delegate in their convention will remember how Hinton emphasized his vote when he announced SANKEY! Why did he bellow so loud? The answer is plain—because the Ring instructed him to do so, he being one of them, and is looking to a second nomination himself. This is the reason why the new candidates were out-generaled. Hinton has done his part, now Foster must do his, namely: His part of the play is to trump up something against Gramly, and SWEAR to it. But every tax-payer knows, or ought to know, that Gramly's WORD is more truthful than the OATH of any of the RING.

COL. GEO. A. BAYARD is an honest industrious mechanic, a capable man in every way for the responsible office of Treasurer. Mitchell is a rich, high-flown aristocrat, and will give you the cold shoulder after the election.

WE want the voters of Centre county to REMEMBER that COL. BAYARD did not ask for the nomination of Treasurer; but since he has received it he has gone to work in earnest, sparing no pains to secure his election. We hope every Republican will do everything that lays in his power, to secure the election of this worthy worker. He is a poor man and, therefore, should receive the votes of poor men. He was a soldier, and a faithful one, suffering all the hardships of an incarceration in Libby Prison, where many of our brave soldiers, less fortunate than our gallant Colonel, paid the penalty of their devotion to country, with their lives, in one long, lingering agony of slow starvation. We hope every soldier will vote for their COMRADE, GEO. A. BAYARD. He who was first in war should first be honored at home. Laboring men, soldiers, Republicans, he is the people's candidate, you forced the nomination upon him, as many of the delegates know that he requested them not to vote for him, therefore, his nomination was the direct will of the people, and was not secured by any manipulations of rings or cliques, therefore, he is doubly deserving i. e. the office sought him, and not he the office.

Autocrats.

There is no way in which you can construe the word autocrat to make it apply to John Irwin, Jr. His gradual accumulation of the moderate competency of which he is possessed by honest toil, beginning without one cent that he could call his own, in our midst and within the recollection of many of our citizens working his way up from the very lowest round of the business ladder—chop-boss, clerk in store, taking up cord word, manger and finally partner—certainly forbids any idea of that kind and has a tendency to pure democracy and we know that the principle is ingrafted into the very character and disposition of Mr. Irwin "that all men are created equal." If it was not so then Mr. Irwin's poverty in youth would have debared him from being a candidate of the great Republican party at the present time.

JOHN IRWIN, JR.

No good reason has yet been given by the Democratic papers of this County, why the people of Centre Co. should not vote for Mr. Irwin for Senator. No charge affecting his character either public or private has been, or can be made by any one. Mr. Meek charges him with being an autocrat, but every citizen of Centre Co. knows this is false. He always has been industrious and a hard worker. He commenced life a poor boy; "a shop boss." He has a practical knowledge of the interests of the working men and is in hearty sympathy with them. He has advocated and sustained every industrial enterprise in our County. He has grown up with the people, and is well known among them. In all the various trusts imposed upon him, he has discharged his duty with fidelity. Honesty, integrity and capacity, the necessary requisites of every Candidate are combined in him. Knowing the people's wants and interests, he will faithfully represent them. He is the people's candidate, influenced and controlled by no individual or faction. We call upon the people of this District, irrespective of party, to honor themselves by electing a true representative of the outgrowth of Republican institutions. Democrats and Republicans, you can give your votes to John Irwin, Jr., without violating any party fealty; you can support him as a neighbor and friend; as one whom you can always trust to represent you in Harrisburg. We would say nothing harsh of Mr. Waream, but we do not know him; he is a stranger to us, both in person and in character; why then support him in preference to our own citizen, whom we do know, and whose character we so highly esteem? These are considerations we ask the people of Centre to think and act upon.

WE warn our Republican friends against being deceivd by split tickets. There will be tickets of that kind in circulation. Tickets with John H. Orvis, the rest republican, with Waream in place of Irwin, and with Sankey in place of Gramley. Look out for them!

STATE TREASURER.

The Democratic organs, city and country, says the Telegraph, are exerting themselves strenuously to defeat Mr. Mackey and place Mr. Hutchinson at the head of the Treasury. They evidently envy the Republicans the management of the State finances, which the leaders af the party have been itching to handle for some years past. To effect their object they pause at no falsehood, however huge, manufacture calumny after calumny, and misrepresent and lie with a recklessness that none but the most desperate and daring politicans would resort to. But in this case they will find that mendacity will not aid them. The task they have undertaken is a hopeless one, impossible of accomplishment. Mr. Mackey's record as manager of finances and guardian of the Treasury is too good to be affected by the wholesale slanders of his political foes; while his Democratic opponent has no public record at all, and is only known as the Treasurer of a great railroad corporation under whose control he would be, if such a misfortune as his election should occur, and whose interest he would subserve to the extent of his power as State Treasurer. So well approved wa Mr. Mackey's record as Treasurer that he was nominated on the first ballot by the Republican State Convention—and so well approved is it by the people that he will be elected on the 14th of October by a majority that will make his slanderers stare.

THE Lewistown Gazette in presenting the claims of the different candidates to the support of all true patriots, speaks in this way about our candidate for senator:

For Senator, John Irwin, Jr., of Centre county, is in every way fitted, and we venture to say will meet the wants of this district with an honest effort to legislate for the good of the people if he is elected. There is nothing of the partisan about him, however firm he may be in his political convictions, and being one of, and indentified with, the people, he would do nothing contrary to their interests in the way of special or injurious general legislation. We had hoped that the Senatorial contest might be carried on in a proper spirit, but it is difficult for Democratic editors to keep their hands out of dirt or dirty water, as was shown by the paltry statements that Irwin was rich, wore kid gloves, dressed in fine clothes, &c., while Waream was a poor man, conveying the impression that he hardly owned a decent hat or clothing, of course with a view of prejudicing the poorer class against Mr. Irwin. Everybody in and about Lewistown knowt this statemunt to be basely false, but it will be used where the facts are no known. Taking their view of the case let us ask what then does Waream want in the Senate? The legitimate pay there is less than he can make in his several occupations at home. IS IT TO MAKE MONEY? Unlike Mr. Irwin, he has been a politican and partisan since his majority, and up to the present day has stood arrayed in hostility to what has heretofore proved the dominant part of the Democratre party, in this county, and it would be news to us to hear that any Republican candidate has ever received political favor at his hands. Although the "Democratic" candidate, does any one believe he will altogether forego his feelings and prejudice? On the contrary, would it not be most likely, if opportunity presented itself, he would legislate to revenge real or fancied injuries?

Then too there is local option.—Neither candidate is pledged to its repeal or continuance, but taking the two men as they stand, who is most likely to vote for its repeal? That law was passed for three years, and was so adopted in this senatorial district by a majority exceeding four thousands.—Right and justice demand that it shall have a fair trial and be tested by the light of experience. Our own belief is that Mr. Waream will vote for the repeal of that law at once, while Mr. Irwin will favor its continuance for the term for which it was adopted.

Nobody but the "court house ring" is working for the re-election of Sankey. Honest men every where and of both parties, want to see him defeated. Elect an honest and a capable man!

That man is SAMUEL GRAMLY of Miles. twp.

THERE are tickets in circulation purporting to be Republican, with John Irwin, Jr. spelt John I-r-v-i-n, and with John H. Orvis for Assembly. Look out for them as they are calculated to injure our candidate for the Senate as well as for Assembly.

VOTE FOR GRAMLY.

Poetry.

ON THE THRESHOLD.

I'm standing on the threshold of eternity to-night,
Though my mind grows more dark in seeming,
in the truth it grows more bright.
I've been talking with the loved ones whom ye told me went before,
And I see that they are watching on the river's further shore.

I've been talking to the little one that laughed
upon my knee,
I've been dreaming on that husband's breast ye said I ne'er should see,
I've been whisp'ring in my mother's ear the tales of days gone by,
And my father's lips have told me that my time
was come to die.

A sister's hand has dwelt in mine, my brother kissed my cheek,
And my baby called his mother's name—they've taught him how to speak, n the other side the river--but they say he speaks alone
The dear name of his dead father and the one that is my own.

And I saw from where my spirit was the pathway to my grave ;
Its gloom is but a fleeting cloud—its dampness
but a wave
That breaks, with silver crest above the sorrow
it brings down—
The water washes free from sin, the crest becomes a crown !

Death is but to ford the river that shall wash
all sin away,
And 'tis not an endless sleeping, but awaking
to the day
Yes, I almost think we're sleeping, and that life with all its pain,
All its mirth and all its weeping, is a dream we dream in vain.

It has seemed to me that often, as in death thro'
eyelids closed,
I have seen a world of sunshine where Eternal love reposed ;
I have seemed as if about to wake, but sank
again to sleep,
And, as if but lightly dreaming, I could feel me dream and weep.

Forms of grace, I see ye nearing ! Though the sun sinks in the west,
Yet a softer light appearing tells me that I soon shall rest.
Ah, the Cross dawns on my vision ! and as earthly objects swim,
Jesus folds his arms around me and I sink--to sleep in him. TRACY GOULD

CHAPTER XXV.

HELEN MEANS AND MYSELF.

During my absence, Deacon Webber had grown so ugly and miserably that even his own children, such perfect chips of the old block, could not live with him. He now occupied his house alone. I met him one day, on my way to the village, and I was surprised to see the change which one year had wrought. His form was bent, and his clothes ragged and filthy. He had not cut his gray, stiff beard for months. With his malignant eyes, hollow cheeks, wrinkled forehead, swarthy skin, and long, gray beard, half covering his thin, dry lips, his uncombed hair, and the filth and dirt which clung to his ragged garments, hands and face, he was a horrible sight to look upon. Though his appearance was disgusting in the extreme, I could but pity the poor wretch. As much as I had hated him, as much as I now despised him, he had fallen so low that I did not wish to harm a hair of his head. He had become a general object of loathing, and I would sooner have done him a kindness than to have inflicted an injury.

He recognized me, and a fiend could not have gathered more of hatred and malignity in his countenance. His brow darkened, his eyes gleamed with the fiercest fires of brutal revenge, and his lips seemed ready to spit out venom and spite. Unmoved, except with disgust, I passed by him ; but I could hear him grind his teeth and growl for some time after I had left him. He looked as though he would be glad to spring upon me, and, like a wild beast, tear me limb from limb. And this was the pious, praying deacon ; the "burning and shining light." This was the man who had so often doomed his fellow-creatures to inconceivable torments ; and now what a doom was his ! All the time he was professing godliness he was a pharisaical hypocrite, and it had given him the heart of a devil ; and he who has such a heart is in the lowest hell, whether in this world or another.

The deacon's whole object now was to accumulate property. Gold was his god, and all his vows were paid at its altar. He lent money, took mortgages of lands and buildings, and, as his creditors often failed to redeem them, his property rapidly increased. He sold for ready money nearly every article of household furniture, beds, and bedding, and then lived more like a brute than a man. He afterwards rented the house, all but one room. His children continued to show him the respect which is due from a child to a parent, not from love, but that they might inherit his fortune. A number of excuses were given for leaving him, but the true one was kept out of sight.

In September I again visited my uncle. I was received with that familiarity and kindness which parents bestow upon children. They had always treated me like a child. The only reception which seemed at all cold was from my uncle, on my first return from New York. Some days then passed away before I could feel as easy in his company as formerly. There was no change in my aunt ; and now she expressed much anxiety in relation to my health, and begged me to stay and let her doctor me, until I should get rid of that pale, languid look, and bring back the color and sprightliness which I once possessed. I required but little urging to comply, for I could dwell in the presence of one whose attractive loveliness increased with every hour. To be near her was now my greatest happiness. By her side I could sit for hours, though not one word was spoken. To catch one glance of her beautiful eyes, or feel the touch of her hand, which thrilled my whole being, was a pleasure which I sought elsewhere in vain. So intense and all-absorbing was my love, that I could have died for her ; but to live without her was worse than dying.

In spite of my aunt's motherly care and nursing, my health, instead of improving, was every day growing more precarious. In vain she prepared me strengthening syrups, and labored with a mother's care and anxiety to bring back my lost health and spirits. In the presence of Helen there were moments of intense happiness ; but every moment only made me so much the more anxious to press her to my heart, and hear her whisper the dear words, "I am thine !" She engaged all my thoughts, all my wishes, and all my hopes ; and yet I was debarred the privilege of asking her to crown my long and ardent devotion with her love. I knew not what to do, and sometimes indulged in bitter thoughts against her who was dearer to me than my own life. Helen seemed to grow restless and uneasy, and I often caught her eyes fixed earnestly upon me. But those eyes had before deceived me, or I was unable to read their language ; and how could I hope to understand them now? My uncle, too, often regarded me with an inquiring and troubled look.

After two or three weeks of miserable doubt and suspense, the most bitter thoughts began to rankle in my heart, and the result was that Helen's society, in a measure, lost its charm. She noticed it, and, as I thought, tried to throw around me a witchery that I could not resist. I thought she must be a coquette, and kept aloof from her as much as possible. When in her society, I was moody and silent. I resolved to return home. I named the day, but in accordance with my uncle's wishes, postponed the time one week ; but I resolved that Helen should not profit by it, for I would absent myself from her as much as I could conveniently, and when with her talk as little as possible. The consequences were that I was all repulsion, and she all attraction. An almost irresistible charm hung around her, and it was with extreme difficulty that I could overcome its power. She sometimes seemed as though she would be glad to open her heart, and tell me all its desires and hopes ; but I repelled her with all the strength I could muster. "Surely," thought I, "she is a complete coquette." I often reflected upon the utter impossibility of Helen Means being a coquette ; but how else could I account for her present conduct?

My last week of probation had nearly expired. In two days more I should return home, and remain until the marriage of Tomas and Lizzie, which would take place the next month ; and then I would go I knew not and cared not whither. To get away from myself would be my greatest desire. O, it is a sad thing for the young heart to be so overburdened that it would gladly escape from its own thoughts, and forget its own indentity ! Many a one flies from, friends, and from all that's dear,—from every object loved, around which memory clings,—as the startled fawn flies from the hunter and the hound. He goes out into the great wilderness-world, not to find joy, peace of happiness, but that he may leave the pangs of disappointment and broken hopes far, far behind, or drown them in excitement, and and charm them away with new scenes and new faces. I, too, would go, and long years should pass away ere I again returned. The image of her I loved so well I would tear from my heart, and tread it under my feet. The blissful hours and blessed moments which had so cheered us in the bright past, and which now filled memory's halls with beautiful forms and diviner shapes, should, every one of them, hasten away and I would crowd them with delights drawn from new scenes and new hopes.

Day had once more said good-night to the world, and the evening shadows again marshalled their dusky troops to cover the earth with darkness. Twilight lingered long, as if unwilling to turn away its rosy face from such an enchanting scene. It was glorious ; for a gorgeous autumnal sunset had poured upon the world a billowy flood of golden smiles. The great king of light went down encircled with glory,—as goes the good man to his rest, when his work on earth is done,—and the lingering red of the western sky faded into the clear blue. And now the harvest moon, lovely queen of night, rode proudly on high, making the white clouds her chariot, and decking it with stars. As she swept through the skies, and marshalled her armies of light and beauty, and sent them forth on their nightly errand of love and peace to every child of humanity who will but look up and drink in their smiles, and open his ears to the music of the heavenly hosts ! O, how magnificent were the clouds, sailing through the heavens with the grace and majesty of mighty worlds! Some were red, rosy and white, and others were blue and orange, and some seemed to catch all the hues of the rainbow, blending them in most wondrous beauty.

But, although the evening was so delightful and soul-inspiring, I was in no mood to enjoy it. I could not close my eyes to its glories, nor entirely shut out its hallowing influences from my heart ; neither could I enter into the fulness of its delights. I was shut out, for a time, from the innermost of nature's sanctuary,—from the holy of holies. I love nature at all seasons ; and my way has never yet been so utterly dark but that her light could scatter some of the shadows. There have been times when I have turned away from the faces of men, but never from the benignant face of God, smiling from his works.

When twilight had entirely disappeared, and night once more reigned over the earth, and the tall trees had daguerreotyped themselves upon the ground which they overshadowed, and were looking down with pride at their forms of beauty, as they reposed in the moon's light, sad and unquiet at heart, and so unfitted for scuh scenes of beauty, I took a candle and book, and retired to the parlor, to read. After seeking, in vain, to fix my mind upon the subject of the writer, I laid it down, and leaned my head upon my hand, and gave loose rein to my burdened thoughts. While thus employed, a light step approached me. I knew that it was Helen, but I did not lift my head. She came near me, and laid her hand upon my shoulder, and said,

"This is a beautiful evening, Henri !"

"It is well enough," I replied.

"Is that all ?"

"As much more as you please."

She paused a moment, and then said,

"Is it right to spend such an evening alone, when your friends desire your company ?"

"That depends upon circumstances.—But I have not been alone ; would to heaven I had !"

"Who were your companions, then ?'

"My own thoughts."

"They should be pleasant, as you prefer their company to any other."

"There you mistake, for I am weary of them ; they make me ever so wretched."

"Why harbor them, then ?"

"For a very simple reason ; I cannot help it."

"May I know what they are ?"

"No !"

"Why not, Henri ?"

"Because I cannot tell you ; and if I could, I would not !"

She seemed a little disconcerted, and walked to the window a moment, and then returned to my side again, saying,

"It is very beautiful to-night ; will not the morning be pleasant ?"

"Most likely."

"We used to ramble, once, at early dawn. Will you walk with me in the morning ?"

"I am not very anxious for a walk myself ; but, if you particularly desire my company, I will attend you."

When I uttered these words, she sighed deeply ; and I looked up, for the first time since she came into the room. She was gazing at me, and a sad expression rested upon her countenance.

"Shall I play and sing to you ?" she inquired.

"If you wish."

"Not without you desire it."

" I'm found of music, you know."

"But not when I make it."

"That's your own inference."

"O, Henri !"

"Say on."

She now raised her hand and brushed away a bright tear, lingered a moment, seemingly making an effort to speak she then arose and opened the piano, swept her fingers across the keys, and played a beautiful but simple air, that she had often sung to me when a child. She then sung, in touching and thrilling tones, the following words :

The heart is cold that's dear to me,
The heart I yearn to call my own ;
For when I touch the magic key,
It gives not back the answering tone.

It turns away from true love's shrine,
While I in sorrow linger there,
And long to whisper "Make me thine,"
But fear to breathe the heartfelt prayer.

How well I love the bending skies,
The dimpled waves of golden light,
And all the glad and starry eyes
That pierce the somber veil of night !

The hills and dales with verdure clad,
The brooklets leaping through the dell,
The birds with notes so full and glad,
Or soft as evening's vesper-bell !

The leafy trees that charm the eye
With worlds of gems at early dawn,
As though they'd lift them to the sky.
To glitter when the night comes on !

The river winding to the sea,
The flowers that blush o're all the plain,
The zephyrs whispering lovingly,
To cool the throbbing brow of pain !

Nature is ever bright and fair ;
And, though I love her passing well,
Yet in my heart are lines of care,
And yearnings that I may not tell.

O, what is all the world to me
Without the heart that should be mine !
But one fond look, then trustingly
I'll lay my trembling hand in thine !

A few lines were sufficient to call my attention to the thoughts of the singer, and to draw me to her side. When she had finished, she turned her head, and fixed her soul-speaking eyes, with all their light and love, full upon me. For a moment I was charmed and enraptured,—full of hope,—and then a shadowy cloud came and stood between me and the object of my adoration, shutting off the light of those truthful eyes, which I so much needed to revive and strengthen my fainting heart. I thought of the moments in the past, when I had been so intoxicated with that thrilling and melting glance, that I had almost worshiped the source from whence it sprung. Twice had it caused me to declare my love, and earnestly seek a return of my most devoted affection, and each time I had been firmly rejected. I again thought she must be a coquette. In my mind I compared her to the serpent that charms but to destroy.

When these feelings had taken strong possession of my heart, I left her side, and seated myself upon the sofa, in moody silence. She seemed irresolute for a moment ; then she arose and came and stood near me, and said, while a sweet, sad smile played around her eyes.

"You think ill of me, Henri !"

"Helen," I replied, "I despise an untruth ; and, if I did not, it would be in vain to deny what you allege, for actions speak louder than words."

"Very true ; for, had you denied it, I should have doubted even your word. Now, Henri, you have one duty to perform, which must not be longer delayed ; you must give me your reasons for this."

"Is that my duty ?"

"Do you doubt it ?"

"I have not given it sufficient thought to be able to tell."

"It does not require thought ; a moment's reflection is sufficient. Think of the happy hours of the past,—the relations which have existed between us, and which should exist now ;—of what the future may have in store for us, and then answer to your own conscience if you should not tell me all !"

"I will tell you, Helen, since you so much desire it. You remember that I have twice offered you my heart and hand, believing, each time, that you would answer me favorably. When you last rejected me I desired you to take time to consider, telling you that I never should make you another offer. You wished for no time, but decided at once. That I loved you deeply, devotedly, you do not doubt. That I ought to break the cords that bind me to a hopeless love, is equally certain. And, though I cannot sever a single shred, nor drive for a moment from my breast the passionate love that is wearing me to my grave, you still keep up that witching spell that first charmed me into love, and which draws the cords still closer around my heart ?"

"If I do as you say, do you regard it as done intentionally ?"

"I cannot doubt it !

"And what is your inference ?',

"That you are a coquette ?"

"You shall know me better !"

"I would gladly do so !"

"You have been very plain with me, Henri, and I will be equally plain with you. Although you have regarded me as a coquette, still you have been ever very dear to me ! I have but few friends, and those I love most dearly ; but you I love more than all ! You have thought that I could wantonly trifle with your holiest affections! Do you think I would knowingly injure your kind uncle and aunt, who have been more than parents to me ; or the good, dear Mrs. Stewart, who has been ever like a mother ? How then, could I wantonly injure you, when I love you more than they ?"

"Then I have judged you wrongly."

"And you shall have still stronger proofs. As I have twice rejected you you may now reject me ; but, if ever I am led to the altar, your hand alone shall lead me ! If ever I give my heart and hand to another, you alone shall receive them !"

"O, Helen !" I replied to these enrapturing words, "can you mean all this ?"

"Must I repeat it again, in order to convince your unbelieving heart ?"

"I am satisfied, dearest !" I answered, folding her to my breast. There was no shrinking away now,—no half-suppressed desire to tear herself from my arms. That long and passionate embrace was mutual, looking love from eyes humid with their burden of too intense happiness, and breathing out deep sighs,—for spoken words would have been but a mockery,—and uttering the heart's own language in burning kisses. I cannot describe the thrilling rapture of that moment ! Worlds of joy seemed to come pouring into our hearts, making them like heaven in the intensity of their bliss ! But I must stop here, for words are poor things when used to describe the mightier emotions of the heart, whether they be of joy or sorrow. Perchance the reader will say that I should have drawn a veil of silence over this scene, rather than have it exposed to the gaze of those who cannot appreciate it.

Not many minutes had passed away, before I was thinking of what might be the real import of the words she had uttered, even while I held her heart beating against my own. But other thoughts beautiful as morning, sweet as the breath of June, and brightly tinted as a rainbow, were stirring the long pent-up emotions of my heart; and this was no time to talk or seek explanations. Lovers are never in the possession of such heartfull happiness as when they find no use for words, and their utterance would be like harsh discord in the midst of sweet harmony. She was the first to speak.

"You would know more, Henri ?" she said.

"You have read my thoghts," I replied. "You said that, if ever you gave your heart and hand to another, I alone should receive them. Did you mean they should be mine whenever I chose to claim them ?"

"Yes, dearest, they are yours now and evermore."

"Then I am satisfied, and will query no more."

"Nay, but you should query more and now; for we should know each other, that there may be nothing to mar the happiness in the future."

"You must explain, for I know not to what you refer."

"Is there nothing in the past that is dark or mysterious? Are the no problems you would have solved ?"

Quickly now come rushing upon me the thought of her twice refusing me,—of her intimation that she did not love me ; and I felt that an explanation was needed.

"Yes, there are, Helen ; and it is well, as you say, that they should be solved now. Tell me why you twice rejected me, and if you really meant that you did not love me."

"Do you think I would be guilty of deception ?"

"No, and that is what puzzles me."

"I have thought that, if ever I was guilty of falsehood and deception in my life, it was when I gave you the impression that I did not love you. But you shall be my judge. Can we truly say that we love, unless we have perfect confidence in the objects of our affection ? Is it love, in its highest and holiest sense, if we are sometimes fearful that they will not always be true to us ?"

"Under such circumstances, we could not love with that perfect love such as you and I should require."

"Then I had not perfect love for you ; for I lacked confidence in the strength of your attachment."

"And I alone was to blame for that."

"I am glad to hear you say it ; for it is the truth. When I learned of your engagement to another, I could hardly believe your own words ; for I had felt that our destinies were so linked and intertwined that they could not be separated. You had never breathed of love, but still I hoped that we understood each other. I well knew that I could never love another as I had loved you, and I determined never to marry. I had been very happy, ever since I was blessed, through your instrumentality, with my peaceful home. The loss of your dear society I deeply regretted ; but I had hoped that our separation might be short. I cannot tell the anguish which your engagement caused me, and I would not dwell upon it now. A load of misery was removed from my heart when that engagement terminated. But soon came the thought that your attachments were weak, and would not last. I could not trust you as I had before ; and I felt that I did not truly love."

"That is all natural enough ; but I think the test was too severe, as I had given Irene up entirely for you."

"You have not yet learned all, and I shall impart to you the information only on one condition."

"I trust it is not hard."

"Very simple. To-night I could pardon, with all my heart, the bitterest enemy I have in the world."

"You promise, then ?"

"I do."

"I will be brief as I can. Your uncle, I think, regretted your engagement with Miss Dinneford nearly as much as I. He was, as he told me afterwards, sadly disappointed. He had fondly hoped to see us united in holy wedlock. When he learned that you were no longer betrothed to Miss Dinneford, he said that you were so changeable and fickle that you could not be trusted. He could not be surprised if I received an offer of marriage from you : but knowing that I had already suffered bitterly, and as he loved me as well as though I was his own child, he wished me to give you no encouragement until there had been sufficient time to test the strength of your attachments. As he had ever been so kind to me,—more than a father to the poor outcast,—as I knew his heart was brimming with kindness, and his head filled with wisdom, I desired to be guided by his wishes,—to make them, so far as consistent, my law, I promised him not to give you a favorable answer until I had his permission, unless I thought it a solemn duty to act otherwise. It was not so difficult a matter to make this promise ; for I was as sceptical as he. A few days since, your uncle released me from my bond."

"The old Shylock ! He must have his 'pound of flesh ?' "

"I think he has held on too long ; but he meant well."

"But there was an if. Why did you not take advantage of it? I am almost vexed with you, Helen, that you did not do so long ago ; for I gave you every reason to trust me."

"Don't say vexed, Henri. I have been satisfied since your return ; but I was not before. I was fearful that, if easily won I might be easily cast aside. And your earnestness, after I had refused you, did not change the matter at all ; for I knew that your nature could not brook a defeat, and that it would not, if it were possible to prevent it. Opposition to your wishes, I well knew, would only stimulate you to greater exertions."

"O, you little spectic ! I would not have thought it."

"Well, you will learn all about me, by and by."

"I hope so ; and when you know me better, there will be no more doubts. But how much longer should you have held on to that odious promise ? I should have thought you would have felt it your duty to have broken it, when I met you at my home."

"I was placed in a delicate position, for I must be the suitor, and not you ; and, besides, I wished your good uncle's full approval. But, if he had continued stubborn another week, I should have felt it my duty to make known to you that your love was returned, and I would have done so."

"I believe, yea, I know, that uncle has a kind heart, and that his intentions were good ; so I will cheerfully forgive him. But, like many others well meaning but mistaken people, he has caused much needless suffering."

"You spoke of doubts departing when I knew you better ; they are all gone now, never to return."

"Bless you for those cheering words and may Heaven grant that I may be ever worthy of your confidence and love !"

"If we are but faithful to the inner light, heaven's choicest blessings will be ours."

"With your love, dearest, to shield me when the tempter comes, I believe that I can conquer, and nearly all the time be very good."

"We may strengthen each other, I doubt not."

"And so be brave and happy. O, Helen ! I never can be too thankful that heaven has blessed me with your dear love."

"And our mutual constancy, peace and joy, will best manifest our gratitude !"

"Then I trust that we may offer up a perpetual sacrifice. But, tell me why you were so decided in your refusals. You acted as though it was a matter of perfect indifference to you."

"The reason is evident. If I had not been decided, I could not have been faithful to my promse."

"I am satisfied, Helen. I understand it all. The enigmas are all solved ; and perhaps it is well that we have been subjected to this trial,—at least, I will try and think so. My present happiness is abundently sufficient to compensate for what I have lost in the past. The future, I know, will be joyous to heaven."

"A perpetual spring-time, a life long summer of the heart !"

"And, though we are sometimes visited with afflictions, that make sad for a season, may they be like 'darkeyed autumn,' beautiful even in its sadness !"

"Bless you for the thought ! We must all experience some sorrows, and meet with some dissappointments. But the faithful need not fear them, for they shall only make them stronger."

"I would that I were as strong as you are,—as free from evil thoughts and evil passions !"

"Nay, I am week, as well as you ; but in God shall be our trust !"

TO BE CONTINUED.

A Fortunate Escape.

About five weeks ago at Shelburn Falls, Mass., a young lad by the name of Willie Adams, fell from a second story window to the ground, striking on a board walk in the yard below, and was picked up insensible. It happened in this way. Young Adams with another lad were trying to pull apart a fishing rod, one boy was sitting on a bed in the room while the other was seated on the window sill with the window open. The rod parted suddenly and unexpectedly percipitating the boy out of the window backwards.

He is a son of Capt. William Adams who moved to Shelburn Falls about six years ago, and is one of the leading men of the place. He has been quite successful in business, and has a large circle of friends for which he is in a great measure indebted to his accomplished wife who is a lady of rare social accomplishments. The boy Willie is a lad of rare promise, and for a time after the accident the excitement was intense, as it was not thought possible that the lad could escape without some serious internal injury ; strange to say however he was out in two or three days and at last accounts we are glad to learn it was thought he had escaped without any permanent injury.

JUST OUT—THE NEW LIGHT RUNNING

HOWE
Sewing Machine

THE GRANDEST PRODUCTION OF INVENTIVE GENIUS.

The new factory of the Howe Company is nearly completed, and 1000

ARE NOW BEING MANUFACTURED AND SOLD DAILY!

The total number sold last year was 220,000, which far exceeds the sales of any other single machine.

THE ONLY MACHINE MADE ON THOROUGHLY SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES.

Combining Strength, Simplicity & Durability with Lightness of Running.

It is superior to all in the following respects:
1st. Simplicity of construction.
2nd. Ease of management.
3d. Lightness of running.
4th. Non-liability to get out of repair.
5th. Durability—it being made of the finest hardened steel.
6th. Perfection of tension on both upper and lower threads, and the ease with which they are controlled by the operator. It makes a perfect Lock Stitch on all kinds of goods and never breaks the thread.
7th. The strength and regularity of the new feed, which enables it to stitch soft or glazed, light, or heavy work equally well, and to cross heavy seams or fells without the slightest difficulty.

The new improved HEMMER, FELLER, BRAIDER, QUILTER and GUIDE; Also, OILER, BOTTLE OIL, DOZ. NEEDLES, BOBBINS, &c., go with each Machine free of charge. In addition to these, we will give a Ruffler and an alpaca Hemmer with each machine, making more attachments than are given with any machine in use

THE PLATFORM.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania, in convention assembled, renew their expressions of confidence in and devotion to the principles of Republicanism, and declare

First. That we heartily endorse and re-adopt the Republican National and State platforms of 1872.

Second. That the National Administration commands our continued confidence and is entitled, by its promotion of the best interests and prosperity of the Nation, to the largest support of the people.

Third. That the administration of Gov. Hartranft calls for our warmest approbation. During the short time he has been in the Executive Department he has established a State policy which has justly endeared him to the people of this Commonwealth, and has amply justified the confidence we placed in him.

Fourth. That while earnestly in favor of Constitutional Reform, and of such a revision of our State Constitution as will make it an effective instrument in preventing and punishing the corrupt abuses that have crept in under our present system, we demand emphatically and especially, that whatever is done or left undone, the main purpose for which the Constitutional Convention was called, the absolute prevention of special legislation, shall be placed before the people as to secure their separate and exclusive expression thereon.

Fifth. That the reduction of the State debt from $11,000,000 to $6,000,000, the repeal of all State taxes on real estate, the establishment of schools for the support of soldier's orphans, the maintenance of our excellant and prosperous system of common schools, the establishment of the policy of paying off our debt at the rate of two millions a year, and the generally flourishing condition of our prosperous old Commonwealth, are evidences that the Republicans, during their twelve years control in Pennsylvania, have faithfully administered her affairs and that the reins of government may safely be left in their hands, Sixth. That there should be rigid economy in the State and National Administrations, and the taxes should be reduced in both as rapidly as consistant with good government, the maintenance of the public credit and certain extinguishment of State and National debts.

Seventh. That the public lands belong to the people, and should be sacredly reserved for homes for actual settlers, and we pronounce against all further grants of these lands to corporations, Eigth. That adequate provision should be made by law for the protection of persons engaged in mining and other hazardous forms of labor.

Ninth. That as retrenchment is required to lighten the burden of taxation and to continue reduction of the public debt, an increase of salaries is unwise, and we condemn without reserve voting for or receiving increased pay for services already rendered, whether in State or nation, and demand that the provisions of the late act of Congress, by which the salaries were increased, should be promptly and unconditionally repealed.

Tenth. That we heartily denounce corruption wherever found, and are sincerely desirous for honesty, economy and political purity in all official administrations. To secure this is the duty of every citizen; and to this end every good man should feel bound not only to participate in politics, but to labor actively to see that none but good men secure party appointments or nominations.

Eleventh. That the practice of loading the appropriation bill, essential to the support of the government, with objectionable legislation in the shape of amendments toward the close of the session is a prolific source of abuse and a fraud upon the people, and its reform is urgently demanded.

Twelfth. That as the country and home industry have uniformly prospered under a tariff so arranged as to afford both revenue and protection, the present tariff should be left undisturbed; and as all tariffs are levied primarily for revenue, it would be a poor government, indeed, which could not afford to arrange its details so as to encourage the growth of home manufactures, and the creation of a remunerative home market for all the products of our soil.

Thirteenth. That order and security in the States lately in rebellion must come through the stern enforcement of the laws enacted to protect life, liberty, and freedom of thought, and cannot be secured by rendering these just and necessary laws inoperative through executive clemency to unrepentant assassins, now undergoing punishment in pursuance of law.

Fourteenth. That as, during the time the Republican party has been in power, it has had to confront graver difficulties and more new and perplexing questions of government, than ever were presented to any other party to solve, and has solved them so judiciously and wisely that the country indorses its decisions and accepts its work, it is the only organization competent to meet the grave issues that are now constantly arising, so as to secure the just rights of the whole people.

Fifteenth. That we sympathize with every movement to secure for agriculture and labor their due influence, interests and rights, and the Republican party will be their ally in every just effort to attain that end.

We carried the County last fall for GRANT, and we can carry it this fall for IRWIN, MILLER, BAYARD and the whole Republican ticket, if every republican will do his duty.

LETTER FROM SHON.

EGYPT, Vots in Haines,
Oct 4, 1873.

Mr. 2 by 10.—De old man vas pooty mat apout dem dings vot sol Chews-Harp tell de odther time, he hunted all over Egypt arount for some Kolledge chap vot vont tend to his Shon, but he couldtent find von, an he subsided. But now some feller gets de inspiration in him, and dis is de vay how he makes it. Von night dis feller vades down Switzer hollow dhrough de mud an rain, in de dark of de night he vads along dare, an he goes down unto de city of de wilderness and he enters midin de valls of gibs-ga-mawla, an dare in among de dust an cobwebs of a pile of sweepings he vakes up mit a Blue keg, an a demijon, de spirrit vat is going to defend de Filly-pea-istines an de Black crooks from de "tong of Shon." Now dis feller vat his name vas Billy Horn-Dwarf an vitch his name signifies dat he likes to take a Horn, he and de spirrit of de cobwebs vas genial spirrits, and dey likes to mingle demselves mit de great spirrit ferments, vitch vas stopt up mit de demijon, and so dey animated dem selves, an dey took it in dhrough dare throttle valves an absorbd it, until it vas no more den de little feller, he takes his var Hatchet mit de blue-keg and he crosses over de bridge into de city of de vilderness, even up into the big "stone-Pile," an he stretched frose his hand and he smote it mit his var hatchet. Saying "in a still small voice" his magic se-same, mee-lah, mee-jah, two times over an behold dare appeared unto him a dark shadow and de "ardent vater" flowd into de Blue-Keg an it vas mixed mit fusil-Oil, an it vas vite, den de little feller returns again unto de valls of gibs-ga-mowla, an dey greatly rejoiced, an den dey get furter animated demselves, and dey animated demselves mit fusil-oil, an dey were inspired, den mit a flourish of de var Hatchet an a hoop from de Dwarf, dey makes dat ardent-fusil-ate and de "little feller mit de side visker, vot keeps a store," vat vas another mistake, but dey goes for Shon enyhow, an dey are going to git him "Hark from de tombs" mit dare awful var hatchet, "woe be unto him an his posterity." O ghost of Hamlet! how I tremble apout de awful doom, I couldent sleep veray vell now after dat, I imagin how dey vill chuck me in de hopper an mash me down dhrough de hole in de upper mill stone an den mit yat an infernal grin or delight de grate spirrits of de cobwebs vill rub me between his fingers as I pass down de spout, pulverized into infinitesimal atoms. Poor Shon vat hast don, don——all right. I am resigned, vipe me out right off, but don't tel it all de country arount dat de egyphuns am eny petter as goot dem other communities, ven de leaders of society are so notariously corrupt all over effry place in de whole union. Ve haf dem in Egyyt too an ve haf had for years so long, dat mit dare effry day deceit and dare dishonest dealings and dare canting hypocritical pratings apout relishtion an morality dey have gradually undimmed de principals of individual Karracter, an demoralized de public conshuns until it is like an indian Rubber galles. I dinks now ven ve find yursef amids such times as dese, ven de air is suffocating mit de foul fumes of exposed rascality, ven Humbuckery penetrate de infinite space even near unto heaven to draw a fresh breath from dat upper current vot spins de terrestial globe arount? no poddy but a Knave himself or a fule voult attempt to vite wash over mit flattery an greased compliments dat disgenerate fraud on humanity vot effry poddy nose to be a Hipocrit, an vot vill rob and cheat you effry oppertunity. O ye spirrit of de cobwebs and yea little feller, vot would ye, your defence of de Filly-pea-istines and Black crooks is but a sorry pretence and is sadly out of place. Poke me up.

SHON.

THE COURT HOUSE RING over-ruled the wishes of the Democratic voters of this county in nominating J. G. Sankey for Commissioner. The RING had him nominated for the second term contrary to the usages of their party. It is the RING'S PLOT to PLUNDER the county.

P. GRAY MEEK makes haste to deny that he intends to support Miller. If the charge is not true we are willing to be forgiven for having made such a mistake. But then it is a common rumor and we thought not without foundation, but if it is false, when did you change your mind Peter?

LET every Republican remember that he has a special duty to perform in the coming election, which is not only to vote himself, but to see that every Republican in his neighborhood is out also doing his duty, like a true Republican. Let every Republican in Centre County feel that his vote is required to secure the election of our excellent ticket and act accordingly.

WE are now in the midst of the autumn Fairs and Agricultural and Horticultural shows, and their effect should be not only to amuse and entertain, but to instruct and to inspire, to lead the mind to noble and lofty asperations and a desire to excel in every good work and laudible enterprise. In looking back, it is interesting to see the steady growth in interest, and the great improvement that is continually being wrought in the product of the field and garden. It is impossible to look at these beautiful exhibitions (if we omit those depending on the races for their chief attraction) without perceiving the refining influences and the good effects produced. It is not the value of the premium in dollars and cents, but the satisfaction of having an article of merit that the true exhibitor esteems, and all attending the shows are stimulated with a desire to excel the next season in what has before seemed not quite perfect. Let every farmer then, show what he has been able to do during the past year. Other farmers will be there with whom to compare notes. One of the most profitable results of county fairs, is that farmers learn from each other what crops can be most successfully cultivated, and ascertain each other's methods of attending to them.

BEFORE he studied law, JUDGE GORDON learned the trade of moulder, at which he worked for a time in a foundery at Martinsburg, in the neighboring county of Blair.

WE asserted some time ago that the amount of taxes to be raised this year would amount to $56,000,00, and asked the question, what is to be done with all this money, the Watchman asserts that the amount to be raised is $36,000, 00 Let the tax-payers judge. The ammount of tax assessed last year was six mills to the dollar, the amount this year is the same. Now by reference to the auditors report published in the "Watchman" of February 21st, 1873, it will be seen that the amount of taxes received from collection, unseated lands, &c. amounts to $56,457,04, now the tax this year is the same, and there is no reason to suppose that the amount received from other sources will not be the same. Now what are they going to do with $56,000,00? It is easy to tell what they have done with it in the past. These imbecil Commissioners controlled by a corrupt ring here in Bellefonte, have used the people's money to establish pretended Republican news papers: they spend about $2,000, 00 for advertising alone, for the sake of maintaining their organ and feeing other papers so that they will keep quiet and support them. They tried that game on us, but they found that the Yankees did not want money bad enough to be a party to their thieving operations and when we condemned them for publishing the registry act, thereby making unnecessary expense to the county at the request of their master Meek, he boasted upon the street that we would not get any more of their printing, not even a court proclamation. They took the job away from us. All the advertising for the county should not exceed $1,000, and would not if we had an honest set of men as commissioners, who would be satisfied with the papers that are now in existence, without starting new ones to be devoted to their special interest. The prospect of Gramly's election has woke up the "Watchman," fearfully, naturally enough, as it is a matter of dollars and cents to them, and the people pay the bills.

JOHN IRWIN, JR., is the workingman's candidate. He was a poor boy and has worked his way up by honest toil. He has been one of you and knows your hardships. A vote for him is a vote for your interests.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

THE SIMPLE REASON

why Hand Sapolio is the best article in the world for the constant use of all classes of people, is because it will do what no other substance will, as follows,:

MECHANICS.—Will entirely remove tar, paint, oil and varnish from clothing and hands.

FARMERS.—Its use will prevent tan, sunburns, chapped hands.

WORKING WOMEN.—It will take the place of powders and cosmetics for beautifying the complexion, and will render the hands white and soft, no matter how much they are used.

EVERYBODY.—It is the best article in the world for removing all cutaneous blemishes from the skin, and rendering it white, beautiful, and natural in color. In price cheaper than soap—only 10 and 15 cents a cake, according to size.

GOLDEN AND SILVER JELLY CAKE.

GOLDEN CAKE.—Take the yolks of eight eggs, well beaten, add one cup white sugar, one half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, one and three-quarters cups of flower, having in it one-half measure of Banner Baking Powder.

SILVER CAKE.—Take one-half cup butter, two cups white sugar, three-quarter cups sweet milk; flavor to taste, then add the whites of eight eggs, well beaten, and three cups flour, having in it one measure Banner Baking Powder.

Each can of the Banner Baking Powder contains a small measure, to be used even full, according to printed directions. If you cannot obtain this really valuable article from your grocer, send twenty-five cents by mail, addressed to Banner Baking Powder, P. O. Lock Box 317, Pittsburgh, Pa, and you will receive postage paid, a quarter pound package, together with a list of fifty valuable Recipes.

IT IS AN ESTABLISHED FACT, that Consumption can be cured; but it is far better to prevent the cruel disease from fastening itself on the system, by the timely use of a remedy like Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. This standard preparation will speedily cure a cough or cold and even Consumption often yields to its great power.

Centaur Liniment

There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. Where the parts are not gone, its effects are marvelous. It has produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swellings caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, carache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever before sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling, deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, rising tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or screwed horses and mules, or, for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—this liniment is worth your attention. No family should be without Centaur Liniment. Price, 50c. a bottle, large bottles $1, 00. J. B. ROSE & Co.,
53 Broadway, New York.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and, produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA.—Your attention is specially invited to the fact that the National Banks are now prepared to receive subscription to the Capital Stock of the Centennial Board of Finance. The funds raised from this source are to be employed in the erection of the buildings for the International Exhibition, and the expenses connected with the same. It is confidently believed that the Keystone State will be represented by the name of every citizen alive to patriotic commemoration of the one hundred birth-day of the nation. The shares of stock are offered for $10 each, and subscribers will receive a handromely steel engraved Certificate of Stock, suitable for framing and preservation as a national memorial.

Interest at the rate of six per cent per annum will be paid on all payments of Centennial Stock from date of payment to January 1, 1876.

Subscribers who are not near a National Bank can remit a check or post-office order to the undersigned.

LIVE FOR SOMETHING.

Live for something, be not idle—
Look about thee for employ!
Sit not down to useless dreaming—
Labor is the sweetest joy.
Folded hands are ever weary,
Selfish hearts are never gay,
Life for thee hath many duties—
Active be, then while you may.

Scatter blessings in thy pathway!
Gentle words and cheering smiles,
Better are than gold or silver
With their grief dispelling wiles.
As the pleasant sunshine faileth,
Ever on the grateful earth,
So let sympathy and kindness
Gladen well the darkened hearth.

Hearts that are oppressed and weary—
Drop the tear of sympathy:
Whisper words of hope and comfort,
Give, and thy reward shall be
Joy unto thy soul returning.
From this perfect fountain head,
Freely as thou freely giveth,
Shall the grateful light be shed.

A Sketch of the Life of Judge Gordon.

HIS EARLY LIFE.

Judge Gordon was born in Lewisburg, Union county, Pa., December 22, 1819, and is consequently in the fifty-fourth year of his age, although his face looks ten years younger. The grandfather, John Gordon, who was of Scotch-Irish origin, settled at an early day in Northumberland county. The father of Isaac Gordon, whose name was Zachies, settled at Lewisburg some years before the birth of our candidate, and for many years followed in that place his trade of coppersmithing. At a later date he came to Brookville, where he died in 1872, in the 83d year of his age.

During childhood our hero had such educational advantages as the country then afforded which, it is well known, were not first-class. His father, from sickness and misfortune, was very poor, and Ike, as he was familiary called, when only sixteen years old, found it necessary to support, by the labor of his hands the whole family, consisting of father, mother, three sisters, and a brother. This heavy charge and responsibility, under which a more timid youth would have given way, had no difficulties which could not be surmounted for young Gordon. The path of duty, as he understood it, was plain before him, and though hardships had to be endured, struggles made, and self-denial practiced, he was found equal to the task. Entering Nathan Mitchel's iron foundry, in Lewisburg, as a wane-cleaner, he afterwards learned the trade of moulder, at which business he worked some seven or eight years, part of the time in Danville, then Columbia, now Montour county, and part of the time in Madinsburg, Blair county, about two miles from Altoona. Being crippled in the Lewisburg foundry by the molten iron filling the shoe on his left foot, he was laid up for several months, which time was employed in reading and study, and during which time he acquired a taste for literary as well as scientific pursuits which has adhered to him through life.

BACK TO THE FOUNDRY.

As soon, however, as he could walk without crutches, and long before his foot was well, he was compelled, by the stern necessity which knows no law, to lay aside the books and take his place in the foundry. During these long years of labor, and intimate associations with the hardy sons of toil, he became familiar with their wants and ideas. While being one of them, then, in fullest sympathy with the great army who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, it is not strange that he imbibed those principles of protection to home industry, general education, and national liberty which have since formed the principals of his political creed. That he still retains his old fondness of mechanic arts, and is still regarded among the workingmen of Brookville as a mechanic of no mean order, is fully attested by the fact that no man is held in higher esteem by them than he, or no one more frequently consulted on all subjects in which they take an interest.

STUDYING LAW.

A classical education being circumvented by study during intervals of labor and at night, together with three months at the Lewisburg Academy, Mr. Gordon entered the office of James F. Linn, of Lewisburg, in the year 1841, as a student of law. For his first legal preceptor Mr. G. has ever entertained feelings of gratitude and respect always referring to him as a "noble man, and a good friend."

ADMITTED TO PRACTICE.

In the courts of Union county, April, 1843, the same year he removed to Curwinsville, Clearfield county, and the next year to Clearfield, then called Old Town, the county seat of the same county. Here a partnership formed with Hon. Geo. R. Barrett, a gentleman for whom Mr. G. still entertains feelings of the warmest regard, recognizing in him one who was a friend in his early struggles.

About this time William Cameron, Esq., then, as now, a resident of Union county, admiring the pluck of the crippled boy, furnished him with money and law-books, thus acting the part of a father to him, and enabling him to make a fair start in the world. That the confidence of Squire Cameron, one of the best judges of human nature in Pennsylvania, was not misplaced, the life of Isaac G. Gordon has fully established. In 1846 he removed to Brookville, and formed a partnership with Hon. Elijah Heath, father of John Heath, Esq., of Allegheny City, which continued until Judge Heath left the town, some time in 1850 or 1854.

In August, 1848, he was married to Mary C., daughter of Dr. John W. Jenks, of Punxutawney, who has been the star of his life, and borne him three daughters and one son, all of whom are living and growing up under the guidance of their worthy parents, to be ornaments to society.

Of this Jenks family, it might be remarked that while the father was a doctor, the boys, as well as Mary, rather inclined to the law, as Wm. P. Jenks, one son is now the president judge of the Brookville Judicial district, while his two brothers, P. W., and George A., are praticing attorneys before him, the latter, although comparatively a young man, standing in the front rank of his profession.

GORDON'S POLITICAL CAREER.

But to resume this brief sketch, it is noticed that in 1856 a partnership in the practice of the law was formed with his younger brother, and the firm still continues as I. G. & A. L. Gordon. In the years 1860 and 1861, the people of the Representative district composed of the counties of Jefferson, Clearfield, Elk, and McKean, which was largely Democratic, desiring to be represented by a man of honest integrity, character, and brains, selected Isaac G. Gordon to perform that duty, notwithstanding he had always been known as an Old-line Whig and Republican. The latter year of his term of service in the House of Representatives, he was chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, where, as a deep thinker and close reasoner, together with his thorough legal knowledge, he was able to render important service both to the people of his district and the State at large.

In April, 1866, he was appointed by Govenor Curtin President Judge of the Twenty-eight Judicial district, composed of the counties of Mercer and Venango, in which position he served with distingushed ability until the Monday of December in the same year, when he was succeeded by Hon. John Trunkey, of Mercer, who was elected on the second Tuesday of October previous. The members of the Venango bar unanimously requested Judge Gordon to be a candidate for that position, to which he would undoubtedly have been elected, but as his election would have rendered it necessary for him to remove to Franklin, he was compelled to decline on account of pecuniary considerations.

The Democracy and The Tariff.

The one practical question in which Pennsylvania is just now more interested than any other (says the Pittsburg Commercial,) is the Tariff question. In the settlement of that she has a direct and palpable interest. The continuance of her present prosperity and her future growth depend on it. Her hold upon the iron market, in which she is just beginning to displace her British competitors, and which is just beginning to strengthen and tighten, depends on it. The development of her untold wealth and the employment of her tens of thousands of workers, depend on it. In fact, her very life is wound up in that issue. Yet, upon that one all-absorbing, overshadowing and controlling subject, the Democracy of Pennsylvania has not a word to say. It pretends to be a Pennsylvania party, yet cannot say a word for Pennsylvania! It asks for the support of Pennsylvania, but has not the pluck to utter a word in their behalf! It has opinions upon "monopolies," but none on domestic industry. I, can denounce railroad combinations but is silent on Free Trade; It can acquiesce in the results of the war, but it cannot recognize the results of protection; it can resolve upon all kinds of national abstractions, but has no opinions to express on the one practical question of the hour. It is nominally a Pennsylvania party, but has nothing of Pennsylvania about it; and with a vision that can see afar off, it has no eyes for the interests that lie all around it. How can such a party ask Pennsylvania to stand by it? How, in fact can any true Pennsylvanian stand by it? A party that is too cowardly to express its opinions on a leading and important question, and one in which the people of the State have so clear and well defined an interest, is too craven to live and too impotent to accomplish anything, if it were possible for it to succeed. There are some eunuchs who were so born from their mother's womb; and there are some which were made eunuches of men; but here is a party which has emasculated itself.

THE largest cheese factory in Vermont is at Jerico, in Crittenden county, where it at present takes the milk of 750 cows—a number which will be increased to 1,000 next year; and turns out about 300 cheeses a day, 50 lbs. each, from about 10,000 lbs. of milk.

MISCELLANEOUS.

EXECUTOR'S SALE:—On Wednesday, Oct. 15, 1873, will be sold at public sale the large farm of the late David Harpster, deceased, situated in Furguson twp., about one and a half miles from Penn'a. Furnace, and near the new railroad from Tyrone, containing three hundred and forty-six acres more or less, and adjoining lands of Jonathan Kryder on the north, J. S. Calderwood on the south and Sharp, Steward & Co., on the east and west, one hundred and seventy acres of which is cleared. A good two story house with L containing about ten rooms a good tenement house, a good frame barn and other out building, a never failing well of water, a stream running near to the barn affording good water for the cattle, a nice young orchard in good bearing order, good fences and a prolific soil are among the superior advantages of this farm. The portion not cleared is well timbered, about one hundred and forty acres of it will excellent young chestnut. It can easily bedivided into two parts if purchasers so desire.

Also at same time and place a nice tract of land containing ten acres and covered with a heavy growth of yellow pine and situate about one and a half miles from the above mentioned place and joining lands of John J. Goheen Sharp, Steward & Co., and Peter Kichline.

Terms of sale one half cash when possession is given ballance in one year secured by bond and mortgage.

For further particulars address or apply to Alexander Harpster on the premises.

Agricultural.

☞ NOTE.—We earnestly desire that this Department of our paper shall be made as useful as possible to our Agricultural friends, and therefore extend a cordial invitation to all parties interested, to favor us with contributions. Winter Amusements.

As the days grow cooler and the evenings grow longer, the question naturally arises, what shall we do for winter amusements? Some may say let each one find their own way of amusement; others may say let us have parties, dances, shows, anything to pass away the time. These are all very well in their way, but do not suit a great number of our population. Shows, dances, parties and the like will, come without any great effort they are an every day occurrence, and for those who enjoy such we say let them do so, there is no harm, nor is there any great good to be derived from them. They amuse for the minute or for the hour and then the good, if any, is lost and forgotten in the excitement which always follows such amusements. What we want beside these more exciting amusements is that which will afford food for thought and study to all classes. We do not want all our evenings passed in exciting pleasure, nor do we want all sedate, dull lectures. Let us have a mixture. Let us have the wild and the tame. We can enjoy a good lecture all the better for having listened to a laughable and harmless play the week before. Many people presume to hold that dancing is one of greatest sins human flesh is heir to. If the rising generation never disipates in anything worse than dancing, then indeed is the world growing better. We do not advocate dancing as the best mode of amusement, nor do we oppose it. Let those who wish to dance do so by all means; let those who do not wish to dance amuse themselves in other ways.

We suggest to our citizens that an organization be effected by which we can be supplied with a course of lectures to continue throughout the winter. This should be taken hold of immediately, as the time is short and most of our best lecturers are making their winter engagements. A little effort on the part of our citizens will secure a course of lectures for the coming winter which will afford pleasure and instruction to the many whom we know would be glad to avail themselves of such opportunities. To secure such lectures as we should want, the work must be begun at once. Not a day must be lost. Take hold of the work, citizens! If there is not enterprise and energy enough in Bellefonte to make such an object as this successful, then we say, spend your evenings in and around the stores loafing, and we would suggest, that to amuse yourselves, a chalk-mark be drawn across the floor, each one stuff a chaw of tobacco in his mouth, set in a line and see which one can spit and hit the mark the greatest number of times. Make a little effort and you can acomplish anything. There is snap enough in Bellefonte for any kind of enterprise if it will only awake to a sense of what is wanted. Let us have a course of lectures.

Wolf Teeth in Horses.

Many persons entertain the belief that "wolf teeth" in horses produce blindness. That our readers may see the matter in the proper light, we will endeavor to explain it somewhat fully: At the age of five years every horse has or has had what are called wolf teeth. They are pointed teeth situated at the sides of the jaws towards the front. These teeth are naturally shed soon after their appearance in most cases, but sometimes remain during a lengthened period, and as they are followed by the other teeth, it sometimes occurs that an interference is occasioned when they do not fall out, and they are crowded in the gums and cause irritation. In cases when from cold or neglect the eyes of the horse are injuriously effected, and at the same time there is trouble with these teeth, it is very probable that the irritation may sympathetically increase the trouble with the eyes. But it is altogether an indirect effect, and if the eyes are properly cared for, the teeth would never effect them. When the interference is noticed the wolf teeth should be drawn not knocked out; when there is no interference they may stay in their place without inconvenience until they drop out.

Farmer's Children.

Mrs. Howard writes in the Lansing Republican: "Before their school days begin, the children of respectable farmers should know by daily participation how to feed and pet the small animals on the farm; should learn to tell by the look and action of an animal when it is sick and needs nursing. As soon as the child is old enough to be taught something of its value, and of the process of its growth, he should at every proper season be allowed to help set a tree of some kind to be his own, and thus from the earliest recollection learn to love the soil and products of his home. Children will doubtless acquire, by occasional visits to large towns, a love of more show and freedom than they can find on the farm. This is to be expected; but while acquiring these ideas, let them be taught the expenses of all these desirable attainments, not in money merely, but in many other ways."

THE Stock Journal after giving a number of experiments in feeding corn to pigs, remarks that these statements show that there is within a fraction of twenty-four pounds of pork in a bushel of corn; and the effort of every farmer should be to endeaver to get out as much as he can of it. And to do this, he must have the right kind of hogs, they must be placed in the right conditions, and fed in the right manner, with a view to profit.

A cow's age may be determined by the teeth, but her horns are the surest method. Count the rings around the horn and add to this number three years, which is the lapse of time before any rings make their appearance.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL
PURELY D. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Bellefonte and County.

——The County Fair is in full bloom.

——Have a hack to the Fair ground? only 20 cents.

——The Fair is a good place for hob-nobbing politicians.

——No lady should be without a box of Cocoa-camphorine.

——The A. M. E. Church held a district conference in this plsce last Saturday and Sunday.

——Half the candidates for office will be disgusted with politics after the election. Ain't it.

——Dr. Jno. D. Wingato plugs and jerks teeth at the Butts House this week. Glad to have him back to town again.

——The iron will of Fashion seems to demand that the amiable young ladies of Bellefonte should appear ruffled in public.

——And now old Father Gould, well remembered in these parts, is said to be implicated in the Pittsburg Post-office defalcation.

——Hons. L. A. Mackey and James M. Deise of Lock Haven, were enjoying the air and society of Bellefonte on last Saturday.

——After a hard week's labor in the dedication business at Philadelphia, Simon Loeb and Robert McKnight have returned and settled down to business again.

——John H. Orvis, Esq., was holding a few little meetings all by himself, last week, down through Pennsvalley, just to "get out the vote," or words to that effect.

——The latest tinkle on the sacredotal bell of moral ethics is to the effect that it would be very unchristain like to attend the fair because of the amusements.

——Before starting to the Fair, take the measure of your sitting room and parlor, and then go to Loeb, May & Loeb's store and buy some handsome carpets for them.

——R. A. Kinsloe, late manager of the Bellefonte Press Co., has been promoted to a larger and more lucrative sphere of usefulness in the newspaperdom of Williamsport.

——The bridge over Spring Creek, near the depot, was completely repaired last week. It is now perfectly safe, and visitors to the County Fair need have no fears in driving over it.

——The man with the Faro bank was in town yesterday, hunting for the Amusement Committee, to get permission to open his bank on the Fair ground. They couldn't see it.

——Last Saturday was a gala day at Hublersburg. The Presbyterian church held a novel and interesting "testimonial" for the benefit of the church, and at sundown there was a balloon ascension.

——An enterprising young man who was rejoicing under the influence of 1000 drops of joy, tried to walk the stone wall along Spring Creek on Friday afternoon, and everybody, who saw his crazy freaks, imagined a silent prayer that he might fall into the stream and get cooled off.

——Bowman, of the Clinton Republican, appears to have made himself obnoxious to some of the leaders of his party there, and they have started another paper to be run by a Mr. Brodie, of Williamsport. Harvey, Kress, Hipple & Co., are said to be the leaders in this movement.

——After the election Judge Ludlow, candidate for Supreme Judge, may write his name Judge Laid-low. Frank Hutchison will learn that the old Keystone does not want such a son to manage her finances. The Lewistown scrivener will observe that Senatorial honors are too respectable for him to Warren, and Orvis will find that he has carried his grist to the wrong Miller.

——We are quite proud of the display of the agricultural products of Centre county now on exhibition at the Fair ground. To our friends from the country, who happen to be in town, we extend a most cordial invitation to call and see us. We have a good place for you to spend your spare time, and we are always glad to see you. If you don't want to talk, you will find papers from all parts of the country, to read. Come in and see us.

——Three men went gigging for fish in the head of the forge dam on Monday night. For three men to gig well, it takes torches, gigs, a quart of whiskey and some experience. These three men possessed these necessary articles. An hour was spent in the water before any fish were caught. During this brief time, the trio had lost some patience, the contents of the bottle, and the torches had almost burned away. Now, they went to work in earnest, at least one of them did. He thought he saw a large fish near his companions left foot. He sent his gig after it, but it broke through the dead root of a tree and sunk into the foot of his companion, who, in bending down to take hold of the wounded member, as everybody does when he is hurt, let the torch fall into the face of the gigger, and they both fell over into five feet of water. The third party immediately started after the doctor, but after running half a mile, changed his mind and thinking he could do better by staying with his unfortunate friends, came back hurriedly, and found that the whole trouble had been settled in a fair fight, in which the man with the sore foot had come off more than conqueror.

——The great jurist and eminent citizen, John Potter, the District Attorney, jumps right straddle of his dignity and shakes his wig at us, as it were, in a most menacing manner, and all because we asked him a few questions about affairs connected with his office, which, as a public official we had a right to ask him. He says he was never employed as our agent to make reports. No, he never was, and never will be. We are in the habit of employing competent attorneys. He denies that he took any illegal fees at the last Court and he may be correct; but we noticed that the majority of his time was spent in collecting fees instead of attending to his legitimate duties. He had to employ competent attorneys to prosecute the claims while he gathered in the "sevens." We were told that he offered to take the name of a young man who lives in town, off the list of witnesses on a certain liquor case, if he would pay the district attorney five dollors. Perhaps that was a legitimate fee. Publishing the list of indictments without the names of the parties indicted made his report a complete but characteristic nonentity. We will be pleased to propound a few more pointed questions of this distinguished member of the Court House Ring in our next issue.

——Years ago, ere the red-man had gone west, and before the forests of old Centre, had given way to the star of empire, there lived in this section a famous Indian chief named Logan. So great was his fame, so kind was he of heart, so many were the fine qualities in the make-up of this son of the forest that in later days, long after old Logan's bones had pertrified, many pleasant tributes to his memory remained. Many institutions, works of natious and of art, that possessed fine qualities and attributes of merit, were named after this famous old chief. We have a Logan's Branch, a stream of water, the Logan Fire company, than whom there's none better, and last, but not least, we have the Logan Dining Saloon, kept by Mr. George Downing, whose nom de plume is "Logan." The best of fresh oysters and the nicest luncheons that can be imagined are ready at any hour. Visitors to the fair will find the Logan Saloon, opposite the Bush House, the very place to take their meals.

QUERRY.—If the law passed by the Hon.(?) P. Gray Meek in '69 requires the the Auditors' report to be "published in the several papers of Bellefonte," how will they get around the fact that the Safe Guard and the Christian Union Work published in this borough?—They are published in this borough, and the law requires the Auditors' report to be published in all the papers. Now how will the conscientious Auditors fulfill the provisions of this wise prophetic law? It ain't just the most interesting thing for an anti-tobacco paper that we have ever seen, and it is entirely too heavy for the Christian Union, and what will be done? The "laws of the land" must be enforced.

——Dr. A. Smith, Cyrus T. Fox and Charles Melcher, a committe representing the Berks County Agricultural Society, visited the Agricultural College, in this county, last week, for the purpose of examining its condition and management. They expressed themselves, on their return, as being highly pleased with everything connected with the College, and say, with all who have examined the institution under its present management, that it ranks among the foremost institutions of the kind in the country.

——Messrs. Curtins, Loeb & Co, have leased the Bellefonte glass works and the personal property thereto belonging, to Messrs. Schad, Seigworth & Co. of Pittsburg. This firm represents a co-operative association, of sixteen members, who are experienced men in the manufacture of glass. Things are beginning to look brisk around the glass works already.

——Every gentleman should provide himself with a box of Cocoa-camphorine.

——Every schoolboy and girl should be provided with a box of Cocoa-camphorine.

——The lower townships in Pennsvalley are offering good wages for competent school teachers.

——The Pennsylvania R. R. has adopted the eight hour system in all the shops belonging to the company.

——The new Evangelical church at Hublersburg was dedicated, with appropriate ceremony, on last Thursday.

——Penn Hall Academy "exhibited" on last Friday evening. The entertainment was very creditable, all deserve praise.

——A life-long Democrat up town refuses to support Orvis, on the ground that it is as much as he can do to support himself.

——The Centre Reporter directs the attention of its readers to the new price list of Burnside & Thomas, in another column and, by the same token, so do we.

——Last Friday was a very pleasant day, but Captain Jack did not enjoy it. He has gone to the happy hunting ground where they don't have the old fashioned lava beds.

——The corn-stalk editor at Centre Hall has again been imposed upon by a bogus marriage notice. They have a great deal of fun over there at the expense of the "patent paper."

——Some of the back streets in this place are in filthy condition. The residents near these disgusting localities should remember that lime is never thrown away on an out house.

——Israel Grenoble has given up his office as Recorder of the county, and has gone to Spring Mills to enter the merchantile business. Hon. S. T. Shugert will attend to the duties connected with the Recorders office until the expiration of Mr. Grenoble's term.

SAM'L GRAMLY'S WORD is more worthy of belief than the OATH of any member of the Court House Ring. Look out for "Roorbacks."

MODE OF VOTING.—There will be three tickets voted this fall—one headed "State," with the name of the candidate for State Treasurer thereon—one headed "Judiciary," with the name of the candidate for Supreme Judge thereon—and one headed "County," with the names of candidates for State Senate, for Assembly, for Treasurer, for Commissioner, and two names for Auditors, one for three years and one for two years.

——We have the pleasure of recommending the Lime furnished by Messrs. Shortlidge & Co., of Bellefonte, for plastering purposes, to all who intend doing work of that kind. It is decidedly the best quality of lime we ever put into mortar. It is clear of any refuse matter and slacks very readily. Less quantities of such material will be required compared with much that is called good. Our thanks to the gentlemen for sending us such a quality. Z.

——George C. Wilkins has been appointed to the office of Superintendent of the Baltimore Division of the North Central Railway, now under control of the Pennsylvania Central. Mr. Wilkins, as Superintendent of the Bald Eagle Valley and Clearfield branches, has given evidence of very superior qualities as a railroad man. We doubt if there is any better, in the employ of the company he so ably and faithfully represents. The employees on the branch roads over which he has presided, we understand, have in contemplation, a valuable testimonial of their appreciation of their late Superintendent.

HOME WORK—HOME SUPPORT.—For the past five years the Centre County Sabbath-School Association has been actively at work in efforts to promote the cause of Sunday Schools throughout the county. The officers of Association receive no compensation. All incidental expenses have been paid. For nearly three years Rev. R. Crittenden, Missionary of the American Sunday School Union, has been faithfully laboring in connection with our county Association. His support largely depends upon contributions from the field in which he labors. The laborer is worthy, and Centre county is able to devise liberal things in his behalf. We are interested in this work not only as Christians, but as citizens desiring the highest good of the rising generation. It is earnestly hoped that all the Sunday Schools, Churches and friends of the cause in the county will make a contribution for this object as early as possible and forward to Mr. Crittenden or to Chas. F. Cook, Treasurer, Bellefonte. All gifts received will be duly acknowledged.

In behalf of Centre County S. S. Association.

AMUSEMENTS THIS WEEK AT THE FAIR.—Our article on the above subject was unavoidably crowded out of last week's issue. By some mistake our paper was full before our compositors had reached it. We make this explanation because we were anxious to have our readers know what an effort has been made to afford amusement for all in attendance. This interesting branch of agriculture has been placed in the hands of a committee whose fertility of mind and inherent love of fun are sufficient guaranties of the successful accomplishment of the most elaborate and well planned programme. The series of base ball matches, to be played on each of the four days, will close on Friday between the successful club in the previous matches and the first nine of Bellefonte. The champion club will receive from the society a rosewood bat and gold ball. Surgeons with splints, lint, stretchers and restoratives will be on the ground during each game. At 10 o'clock to-day will be a tub-race for a purse of $10. This will be a mine of fun itself. Immediately following will be a sack-race for some purse. Each contestant must provide his own sack and the society will not be responsible for his doctor's bill. This forenoon's fun will terminate with a wheel-barrow race. This afternoon will be devoted to trotting matches as follows: for all horses reared in the county that have never beaten three minutes (if there are any) for a purse of $75; for double teams owned in the county, driven to common road wagon, a purse of $50; 3rd is a hurdle race, free to all, for purse of $50. The crowning race of this afternoon, will be the Fat men's race, distance one-third mile, for all men with bay windows, Lacqueys will stand at the quarter-pole and at intervals on the home stretch, with sponges and new suspenders. Each contestant must be ever 200 pounds, live and running weight. We understand that the following entries have been made for this match: Lewis Housel, Esq., of Lock Haven, David Johnson, Abraham Sussman and Esquire Klinger of this place.

On to-morrow, there will be a display of horsewomanship in the morning and trials of speed in the afternoon. Premiums in the latter amount to $325 in all. These races will be the most interesting in the series.

On Friday morning there will be a grand display and parade of military and civic organizations, fire companies, workingmen's associations, etc., with a grand competitive drill of the military companies. The most brilliant feature of the day as well as of the Fair, will be the Grand Tournament, the most novel amusement ever attempted in this county. This most brilliant and thrilling performance is thus discribed by the poster:

It will consist in taking a ring from a suspended thread upon the point of a spear at full speed. The successful competitor is to be crowned as the winning Knight by his Lady of Honor. A golden ring is to awarded to the victor which he is to place upon the finger of his Lady Fair to be an ever enduring remembrance of well earned victory. All competitors must be in costumes of some description and choose his title. Each competitor must name his Lady of Honor. All so named will occupy a platform prepared for them. The maid of the successful Knight shall be crowned the queen. If there are other Knights who shall be successful or show skill or prowess in their riding, their maids shall be designated maids of honor to the queen. Every Knight shall be allowed three trials. Heralds will be all allowed three trials. Heralds will be appointed to clear the lists and give the signal for the start.

No extra charge will be made for witnessing any or all of these amusements, they are gotten up wholely to entertain and amuse visitors. Let every body come to the fair, that has begun so auspiciously.

——Professor F. Eber, who, for eleven years, taught German, French and Music, in the great University of Heidleburg, and who has but lately come to America, has opened, through the inducements offered him by the citizens of Lock Haven, a conservatory of music at that place. A number of ladies and gentlemen here, are about forming classes in the above named branches, and have prevailed on the Professor to divide his time between the above towns. This is a rare opportunity for those who desire a most thorough course in music, or in German or French.

——Cocoa camphorine is manufactured and sold by the wholesale and retail at Green's Drug Store, Bush House Block.

A HOME CAMP-MEETING will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church in Bellefonte for one week, commencing Thursday, Oct. 16th. Religious services will be held every day during the week at 10 A. M., 3 and 7½ P. M. The Pastor will be assisted by the Rev's T. M. Beese, P. E. A. M. Barnitz, J. H. McCord, W. M. Meminger and other ministers. The members of the M. E. Church on the adjoining charges are expected to participate in the services.

WE see by reference to the Auditors' Report of 1872 that MEEK received for printing, $1050.00, while Fred. Kurtz, received $202.-00. Is it any wonder that the Watchman wants Sleepy Sankey re-elected.

——It is not very consistent for a man to preach temperance while he keeps his whisky and ale in his cellar. What say you Geo. Blair?—Brown's Republican.

PENNSVALLEY NEWS FROM THE REPORTER:

—Farmers are busy cutting off corn. The crop, generally speaking, is an average one.

—The work upon our railroad has not been entirely suspended, on account of the trouble in money matters, as was reported, though the force of hands has been reduced.

—Dr. W. V. Runkle of this place, left on Wednesday, for the Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia. This will be his second term. Success to him.

—Mr. Jacob Emerich, of Penns Creek, took aim last week and upon pulling the trigger brought down a very fine deer. Jake always aims well. May his aim ever be steady and his shots successful.

—Mr. George Moyer shot a Chicken Hawk, yesterday morning, which measured 4 feet 8 inches, from tip to tip of wings. The hawk was on a tall white pine tree, in the woods near Mr. M.'s residence, on the Swartz farm.

—Within the last ten days the hounds have run no less than eight deers into the Mill Pond and Pine Creek, in the vicinity of Woodward, and the citizens of the lower end having been enjoying the blue stuff generally.

—The women of Jackson Hill, had a gay old time capturing and skinning a buck last week. After the skin came a fight for it. Mrs. H. Snyder was victorious and carried off the antlers.

—Mr. Tobias, an aged citizen of this place, on last Tuesday evening, while assisting Mr. Jacob Dinges in hauling in clover seed, fell from the haymow striking the barnfloor with his hip. He had to be carried to the house, and suffered much from pain.

—We were shown a few days since, a model of a Patent Car Coupler, invented by Mr. Jacob Mowrer, of this place. The model works splendidly, uncouples in case of accident and couples without any attention. In crossing a Trestle work or a Bridge, should an accident occur, each car going down will uncouple from the one in rear of it. We cannot remember all the advantages which Mr. M. claims for it, but are inclined to think that he has hit the mark. The coupling will cost no more than the old style.

IMEMS FROM THE PHILIPSBURG JOURNAL.—The Philipsburg Benking Company is building a fire proof vault for their safe.

—Just as we go to press Dr. J. H. Pierce has been brought home badly injured by the running away of his horse. His face is badly cut and bruised, and he is otherwise injured, though it is thought not dangerously.

—A colored sportsman, who went out gunning the other day, undertook to walk a log across the Moshannon and when he had balanced himself over the centre of the stream suddenly slipped in and was completely immersed, to the detriment of his ammunition and his own personal danger.

—Mining matters are quiet though, considered somewhat unsettled. The Mapleton Collieries have resumed, the miners entering at the old price, without having obtained the additional ten cents per ton demanded. The other of the two actually suspended by strike, the Reliance, is not working. The impression prevails that a general strike is not imminent.

—An amusing fight occurred the other day, between two Israelites, Nathan Hannough and Edward Stern, in which both claim to have been victorious, but Stern drew the first and only blood. There is a jealousy of Stern existing on the part of nearly all the other peddlers, and he is spirited enough to take his own part, consequently involving himself in frequent quarrels.

—The railroad company have built a new bridge over the Moshannon at the the upper part of the town. The old bridge was torn down and the new one put up by a large force last Sunday, that day being chosen so that no interference might be made in operations on the line or work on the bridge.

——Reader, allow us to engage your attention. Have you a wife? She should have one of those handsome dressing cases for sale at Jas. Welsh & Co's for $25, or less. Take care of your money and buy a handsome pocket book from the above firm to keep it in. Have you photographs of friends who are near and dear to you? Place them safely in an elegant album, to be found at Welsh & Co's. If you want vases, jewelry, boxes, ladies companions, elegant knives, initial note paper, or any thing else that can be found in a complete and well managed book store, go to Welsh & Co's. The greatest attraction at this store has not been told; behind the counter, waiting for your patronage, will be found a pair of the handsomest young ladies in town. If any one doubts this statement call at J. Welsh & Co's and be convinced.

——Messrs. W. & L. Wetzler, dealers in Stoves and Tinware, have lately added largely to their stock. They have now on hand a lot of the best and most approved patterns of Stoves and the largest stock of Tinware in town. Visitors at the County Fair will find it to their advantage to call and examine Wetzler's stock before buying elsewhere.

——Cocoa camphorine cures the worst cases of chapped hands, sore lips and all abrasions of the skin.

THE BERGER FAMILY AND SOL. SMITH RUSSELL.—The Elmira Advertiser says: This troupe gave two entertainments Saturday at the Opera House, one in the afternooon and the concluding one in the evening. The cornet playing playing of Miss Annie is something quite extraordinary. She deserves a place beside Arbuckle and Levy, who claim to be masters of this instrument. Her accomplishments, however, by no means end here. She plays other instruments with skill, sings admirably and acts with spirit. Her appearance and manners are graceful and pleasing and introduce her to her audiences so pleasantly that she is sure to gratify them. Miss Annie does all things well that she undertakes, plays the baritone in the brass band without effort and admirably. Ernest Thiele, Fred. Berger and others of the company sustain their different parts with a great degree of credit. Of Sol. Smith Russell we are always desirous of speaking warmly. Any one who has seen him must have enjoyed, and will endorse his wonderful personations. John B. Gough has seen him and pronounces him without an equal. These two gentlemen are on the pleasantest terms of friendship.

This excellent troupe will perform in Bellefonte at Reynolds Hall, next Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Oct. 8th and 9th, and deserve a full House.

JOHN H. ORVIS pretends to be a strong temperance candidate, but in his letter to the Milesburg Temperance convention he says he will vote for the REPEAL OF THE LAW when HE is satisfied a majority of the people want it repealed. DON'T BE DECEIVED.

POULTRY.—Having been appointed to solicit poultry breeders to exhibit their stock at the ensuing Agricultural Fair of Centre Co. I would say, that it is very desirable that all those who intend to exhibit, should notify me before the week of the Fair, so that I may be enabled to make provision to have shedding prepared to accommodate the same. Exhibitors will provide their own coops and water fountains. Coops made of three feet plastering lath, three feet each way and two and one half inches space between slats, with a slide opening for cleansing, are a very good size for three fowls. Premium lists will be furnished on application.
